5. Conditions for the acceptance and transfer of security purchase instructions concerning the issuing of shares in SPORO and ESPA funds

The Bank will accept an instruction if the Client's account contains sufficient funds for the purchase of the issued mutual fund shares at the moment of acceptance of the Instruction or at the investment date specified in the Instruction.

If there are insufficient funds on the account, repeated attempts will be made to accept the Instruction as follows:

If the Client does not have sufficient funds on the account to purchase the issue of mutual fund shares on the saving date or investment date, the Bank will attempt to reserve funds on the Client's account on the five calendar days following the saving date or investment date.

The Bank will apply this procedure for regular investments in mutual funds under savings programmes and for Instructions in which the Client sets an investment date later than the Instruction date.

Date of transfer of the Instruction for execution:

If the client submits the order before 14:00 on a Business Day and the Bank accepts the Instruction before this moment, the Bank will transfer the Instruction for execution by the asset management company on the same Business Day.

If the client submits the order after 14:00 on a Business Day and the Bank accepts the Instruction on the same Business Day, the Bank will transfer the Instruction for execution by the asset management company on the following Business Day.

Time of transfer of the Instruction for execution:

14:00 on a Business Day

The above conditions for determining the date and time of the transfer of a security purchase instruction also apply to instructions for the redemption of mutual fund shares in SPORO and ESPA funds.

A Client submits an Instruction for regular investment in a mutual fund using an application form for regular saving or Smart investment saving.

A request for the issue or redemption of mutual fund shares is deemed to be delivered to AM SLSP on the day when the request is demonstrably delivered via the bank to AM SLSP based on acknowledgement of receipt by AM SLSP.
